

Long Beach Airport Terminal Improvements Image Summary

Long Beach Airport_Image 1

Long Beach Airport Terminal Remodel concept rendering.

Long Beach Airport_Image 2

Once screened, travelers have the rare opportunity—within an airport—to enjoy the outdoors. A secure 21,000-square-foot garden, studded with palm trees and California-friendly plants, receives arriving and departing passengers. The garden’s canopy-shaded wooden boardwalk evokes the City’s historic beachfront.

Long Beach Airport_Image 3

Undulant beds of Agaves abstract the color and movement of the sea in the Meet-and-Greet Plaza.

Long Beach Airport_Image 4

The security-checkpoint building borders the north side of the Meet-and-Greet Plaza.

Long Beach Airport_Image 5

Lush, climate-adapted landscape recalls the verdant wetlands that once grew along the City’s rivers and estuaries.

Long Beach Airport_Image 6

Ipé wood benches resemble palettes of stacked lumber, designed to remind travelers of the City’s industrial heritage.

Long Beach Airport Terminal Improvements
Image Summary, Continued

Long Beach Airport_Image 7

The Meet-and-Greet Plaza has views through a glass wall into the secure concourse garden, where arriving and screened departing passengers circulate.

Long Beach Airport_Image 8

The historic landmark terminal building, with its restaurant and original control tower, is visible from the secure concourse garden. An allée of California Fan Palms recalls the iconic skyline of Long Beach's historic coastal esplanade.

Long Beach Airport_Image 9

Deep overhangs, or canopies, provide shade and sheltered routes for the occasional rainy day. The benches, like the boardwalk in the secure concourse garden, are made from ipé.