The labyrinth is the focus of the Wellness Center landscape, and was a program that the students asked for.

Students gather at night around the fireplace at the amphitheater.

Yoga and meditation classes often take place in the landscape.

A series of flexible outdoor rooms for students wellness transformed an underutilized campus space.

Students have taken ownership of the site and use it for quiet study, respite, and introspective rituals such as raking the sand in the Zen Garden, or walking the labyrinth path.

The Design provides for multiple flexible social spaces for students to decompress.

The students have created monikers for the outdoor spaces and have woven the wellness centers program into the routine of their day.

Exterior and Interior spaces each have their roles; connection to Nature balanced with cutting edge napping pods to rejuvenate mind and body.

Lighting contributes to the gestalt of the space, creating and influencing the mood of the landscape.
